THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1893.

J. B. HEPLER, DENTIST, Over Foley's store, north side Main street.

Our pictorial edition was well appreciated last week, if we may judge by the new subscriptions that have come in.

Don't fail to visit the book auction in D. Hakes' building.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH SERVICES.—Sunday morning: "Brotherhood, Human and Heavenly." Evening: "Character as shown by what we don't do."

An auction sale of slightly damaged books in D. Hakes' building.

Mr. L. E. Brown, formerly in the drug business in Onslow, has bought out an establishment of like character in Cedar Rapids and moved to that city.

Mr. Aldrich, the veteran insurance man of Wyoming, was a pleasant caller at this office to-day.

One word describes it—"perfection." We refer to De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve, cures obstinate sores, burns, skin diseases and is a well known cure for piles.

Elison's plurality in Jones county is 348. That will do. There did not seem to be much difficulty on the part of the people, after all, in determining where he stood, and we guess all who voted for him knew tolerably well what they were about.

The Lord's Supper will be dispensed at the Scotch Grove U. P. church on next Sabbath. Rev. Alex. Storey, who organized the congregation in 1854, will conduct the services, beginning at 11 o'clock a. m. Also preparatory services at 2 p. m. on Saturday.

It Don't Cost Anything To try Park's Sure Cure. A specific for the cure of all diseases peculiar to women. Ask your druggists our guaranteed plan. For sale by M. P. Sigworth, & Co, druggists.

Col. Shaw announces this morning that this political fight will now be fixed up forthwith, Maj. P. Washington and himself having been appointed to go to Washington to settle the whole business, including Queen Liliuokalani and the administration of monarchical snobbery we now have on our hands.

MRS. J. E. COWEN & CO. NEW MILLINERY! Just returned from Chicago with all new styles in Hats and Bonnets. Call and see them, one door west of Hellberg's meat market.

The lecture of Rev. J. W. Geiger at the Congregational church last evening was heard with satisfaction by a very fair audience. Rev. S. F. Millikan introduced him in a most happy manner.

The theme of the lecturer was "Young America," and it was replete with anecdotes and occasional appeals to the sensibilities that lie below the surface and within the heart. The audience greatly enjoyed the bright, entertaining discourse of nearly two hours in length, and under more favoring circumstances, should he again visit us, he will be greeted with a crowded house.

The Stone City Advocate is the name of a bright little four-page sheet gotten up under the auspices of A. C. Comstock and other Republicans at Stone City. It contained a large amount of valuable political information, and 150 copies were distributed in that vicinity a few days before election.

All are cordially invited to the quarterly tea of the Woman's Home Missionary Society next week Saturday, Nov. 25, from 2 o'clock, at the home of Rev. and Mrs. McKee. A good program, with the lessons in the August, September and October papers, will be given. Supper from 6 o'clock, when contributions for our missionaries are solicited.

PEOPLE'S CHURCH.—Services Sunday 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Subject for morning: "Self-righteousness." Evening: "Jesus the Christ." Special sermon of the series of pregnant questions, Sunday school after morning service at 12 o'clock. Religious service Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. Everybody welcome. CHAS. GRAVES, Pastor.

CARD OF THANKS.—We wish to express our thanks to those who so kindly aided us in our late bereavement, and especially to the fire department. May the blessings of God rest upon you in your saddest hours. D. SMITH, Mrs. FARRAGHER, Mrs. BROWN, Mrs. McHALL.

Hon. R. C. Cousins, congressman from this district, received a very distinguished compliment to-day. It was an invitation from the Home Market of Boston to speak for Iowa at their great annual banquet Nov. 24. The other speakers will be Major McKinley, Governor-elect Greenhalge, of Massachusetts, and ex-speaker Reed. Our Robert has caught the nation's eye already, and it is a pleasure to know he has accepted the invitation. We know he will honor Iowa and that he will speak of her in noble sentences, and not in the slanderous spirit of the demagogue.—C. R. Republican.

Mrs. H. M. Miller, of LeMars, was called here last week by the death of her brother, Charley Smith, and is spending a few weeks with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Harriet Lull and Mrs. M. E. Lull, of Dubuque, were guests in the home of their brother-in-law, Mr. C. H. Lull, last week.

Miss Jessie Smith, of Independence, has been visiting friends in Anamosa during the past week. We are sorry to learn that her health and that of her sister and mother is not the best.

Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Harvey are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ryan, at Leon, Decatur county, and expect to be absent until January.

Mrs. A. Strauss went to Rock Island last Monday to attend a celebration of the 70th anniversary of her father's birthday.

Are your children subject to croup? If so, you should never be without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is a certain cure for croup, and has never been known to fail. If given freely as soon as the croupy cough appears it will prevent the attack. It is the sole reliance of thousands of mothers who have croupy children, and never disappoints them. There is no danger in giving this Remedy in large and frequent doses, as it contains nothing injurious. 50 cent bottles for sale by M. P. Sigworth & Co., druggists, Anamosa, Iowa.

In the tumultuousness of the office hallucination last week one combination that belonged in our picture gallery was overlooked, and though it is a little late we must admit we take considerable satisfaction in presenting it to the election of Rev. R. C. Stephens over C. Larson for trustee in this township, who goes in by 75 majority, gives us control of the board. The gamey quality of our Republican bird and the hasty disappearance of his vanquished competitor are happily illustrated thusly:

FRED CRAFTON'S LUCK.—Fred Crafton was sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment on July 6, 1892, for the murder of Mabel Swartz. On this sentence he would have to serve eight years and nine months, being entitled to six years and three months good time. On his plea of guilty made after the decision of the supreme court in his favor, Judge Conrad sentenced him to one year's imprisonment. He will be able to gain one month good time on this. Adding these eleven months to the time he has already served and it makes his punishment amount to two years, three months and six days. Warden Madden left on Sunday night with his prisoner for the Anamosa penitentiary. Crafton is assistant to the book keeper in the prison, and is also the interpreter for the eighteen Mexican government prisoners who are confined there. Crafton spent some time in the southwest and picked up the language. The Mexicans were unable to speak a word of English, so it was convenient to have a linguist on hand.—State Register.

Engineer Story Keith, who hauls the "fast freight" from Clinton to Anamosa, and Engineer Lew. Ziegenfuss, of the Midland passenger, made the woods and prairie echo with their rooster-crowing yesterday the day after election. Fact Keith's whistle—Story's crowing—was kept so full of jubilation all the way up that it blew entirely off at Center Junction and the train hands had to jump off and "holler" at every crossing and station this side in lieu of the customary steam whistle. "Well, we don't wonder the boys felt happy."

Mrs. Col. Springer returned from Ohio Tuesday. Anniversary Sunday she formed two new auxiliaries in Toledo, Ohio, of 44 members. She also spoke at that place Thursday night, and Friday night at Oak Harbor. Sunday, Nov. 5th, she formed new societies in Maumee and Holland, making a gain of 27 to the membership, with 25 subscribers for the paper. She also spoke in Cleveland Nov. 9th and 10th.

Mr. W. M. Terry, who has been in the drug business at Elkton, Ky., for the past twelve years, says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other cough medicine I have ever sold." There is good reason for this. No other will cure a cold so quickly; no other is so certain a preventive and cure for croup; no other affords so much relief in cases of whooping cough. 50 cent bottles for sale by M. P. DEATH OF EZEKIEL CUTLER.

Decorah, Republican. At his home in Decorah, on the afternoon of Nov. 1st, Ezekiel Cutler passed into rest, in his 66th year.

Mr. Cutler was born in Waterford, Vt., April 26th, 1827. His early experiences were those of a rugged son of toil on a Vermont farm. He early sought the advantages of education, and by far from work in the summer and school teaching at other seasons, he literally worked his way up to a preparation for college, and subsequently through a course at the University of Vermont, at Burlington, teaching more or less each year in order to pay his way. After graduation he went to western New York, and for a brief time was principal of an academy near Buffalo. But he had the legal profession in his mind for a life occupation, and he shortly entered a law office in the city, and was admitted to the bar in 1851. Coming west he found an attractive location in Anamosa, where he settled and entered into a successful practice. In 1857 he married Miss Sarah E. Brigham, of Keeseville, New York, who with three children—Frank J., of Oregon, Gary, and Horace, who are both at home—survive him.

When the War of the Rebellion broke out Mr. Cutler dropped the best law practice in his county, and patriotically enlisted in the 31st Iowa Infantry. Such was his standing and influence that when the regiment was offered he was made its major. He and his regiment were immediately plunged into the awful perils of the Mississippi river campaign, and although he remained in the service less than a year the privations undergone, the broken health, others stepped in and secured the position he had occupied as the leading attorney, and in 1866 he came to Decorah. Here he immediately met warm friends. In 1867 he was elected County Judge, and by the establishment of the office of County Auditor, and the fact that he was a member of the Board of Education, he stepped from one office to the other, by operation of law, and became the first Auditor of the county. Twice he was re-elected, serving with capability and fidelity. After his retirement he devoted himself to law and teaching, chiefly the latter business, his infirmities forbade the hard work that successful pursuit of the former involved.

He was a Republican from principle; a devoted member of the Congregational church, in which he served many years as pastor, and a faithful member of Col. Hughes Post, G. A. R. One of the positions from which he will be most missed is that of a member of the Decorah Board of Education. For many years his devotion to this work was continuous and arduous—grudgingly, without reward, and in the cause of education and the welfare of youth. It is unnecessary for us to speak of what he was as a private citizen, a husband, a father. In all these relations his life was open, known and real of all men. He rests from his labors, and verily his works do follow him.

Funeral services were held at the Congregational church, Rev. John Willard coming here from Chicago to officiate. The bearers were Messrs. Caldwell, Portland, E. L. Beart, C. V. Lloyd, Colleen and Paul.

Mr. Cutler's death will bring a sense of personal loss to many people who knew and admired him in Anamosa. He resided here for some ten years, and a more upright, conscientious, lovable citizen we never had, and we may truly say also that Mr. Cutler's death is a great loss to our people.

Some of our citizens were interested enough in the educational ability of the Wyoming people to attend the rendition of the "Deerfoot Skule" last Friday night. They report a joyful occasion and speak quite favorably of the stage ability of some of our neighbors. It might be well for us to aspire to something of the kind to entertain our people this winter.

The election is over. Bets have been paid. Men have been elevated and men have been undermined. The strain of campaigning is over. Victory goes to the Republicans in general this fall. The time is present now when all can settle down to individual duties. Consciences can have the opportunity to become pacified for their recent loose actions. Morals will be enabled to take deeper root in the brains of all men. Election times are hard upon the reputation of candidates and venturesome voters. Deception and risks are run more freely during election time than any other. It is time now to congratulate the victors. In doing so we trust that honesty and zeal for the good of the people will be among the foremost motives in their receiving office. There is room for improvement in the political character in this county. As the newly elected candidates are ushered into their positions next January, let them resolve to better their country by their terms of office. Do not sacrifice honesty on account of party principle or bribery and self-valuation.

John Sokol, Carl Brown and Robert McCready have returned home from school. They have been at the Iowa State Agricultural College at Ames, where they are preparing themselves for professional or business life. Unlike the average student, they have not been at Ames in the winter instead of the summer.

John Cameron, of Cedar Falls, and Thos. Corbit and Jos. Cameron, of Hopkinton, returned to their voting homes last week to help swell the victory for Jackson and others. They report good progress in their educational endeavors.

After several weeks' absence in visiting friends in Nebraska, Mrs. Jos. Emery has returned to take her home duties in our little village. She expresses herself as having enjoyed the visit and her traveling in the west.

Mrs. Elizabeth Crawford, of Cascade, has been visiting her brother, Thomas Hamilton, recently.

F. T. Woodbury is recovering from a severe attack of influenza, and is gradually able to get out, but with care he went to the polls long enough to vote.

Mrs. Emery enjoyed a visit from her son, Mr. Black, of Manoketa, last Sunday. He is in business there and his call here must necessarily be short, but they are glad to see him and his friends.

An engineer has been busy this week setting up a furnace for Joseph Lyon's building. It is one which appears amply large enough to warm his house, besides cutting up an immense amount of fuel. The firm placing this furnace in his house is a Maquette one.

Some of our city property has recently changed hands. J. M. Paul has sold a few acres of his land on the northeast corner of the corporation. The buyers are W. T. Cameron and F. T. Woodyard. No one seems to complain, and we judge from this that real estate in our town is not as low in price as it might be.

To-day has been an interesting one in the Presbyterian church. It is one that will long be remembered by some of our readers. The occasion was the meeting of the Cedar Rapids presbytery. The object of it was to ordain Mr. Palmer to the gospel ministry, and then to install him as pastor over the Onslow and Bethel churches. The ministers present were Revs. J. N. Fowler and H. A. Vanderlas. Rev. Foster acted as moderator, and Rev. Vanderlas pronounced the constitutional questions to the licentiate, Mr. Palmer. The service was a very interesting one indeed. An impression was made upon the hearts present which will doubtless remain there. We are very grateful to Rev. Vanderlas for his preaching to our people in the evening. The gentlemen had a full day, but all enjoyed their visit with us, and we trust they will not feel any the worse after getting rested.

After the morning service in town and at Bethel the friends came forward and warmly greeted their new pastor to his position. These churches are now in good spiritual condition, and interest in religious matters seems to be awakening. We take the liberty to invite all to attend the services in either of these churches when they feel inclined to worship with us.

On account of sickness Rev. Smith was unable to hold his usual service in the Methodist church last Sabbath. We trust that he will soon be able to discharge his duties before his people.

Do not neglect to attend the oyster supper in the city hall on Friday evening. The weather has turned cold enough for one to enjoy the sensation in his throat when swallowing the mollusk, and warm milk is always good for the system.

Mr. J. H. Deane, of Bellville, has been visiting friends in our village recently. VENTRAS.

Called Home. The stillness of death has again been felt in one of our homes in this community. The angel has entered an earthly fold once more, and has gathered one of our choice sheaves from the field. Sadness once more reigns in the hearts of dear relatives and sympathizing friends. Sorrow seems to attack one and all of us sooner or later.

The subject of this sketch was a woman of pious and Godly heart, having a character worthy of high esteem. At six o'clock on Tuesday evening, Nov. 7, 1893, Mrs. John McBurney departed this life to begin the life which experiences the stillness of a Heavenly Father's presence. But a few words of introduction to the public are appropriate in regard to the deceased. For many years she has lived about three and one-half miles southeast of town, and her influence has been felt in the entire neighborhood. Her native home was in Mercer, Mercer county, Pa., but in the year 1867 she, in company with her husband, who has since died, moved to Iowa, and her last days were spent in this state. She died in her 66th year. In early youth she became a member of the church, and at the time of her death she was identified as a member of the Presbyterian church of Onslow. Her life has been marked as a consistent Christian life, and her name is always mentioned with good thoughts and words. For the last eight years Mrs. McBurney was a patient sufferer under her Savior's providential hand. Time after time occurred when death seemed inevitable, because of the physical weakness of the body. But the Divine Ruler protected her during all these years of suffering and pain. Trouble of body did not seem to discompose her quietude of soul. She always was resigned to pain and anguish, and we are sure that her Heavenly Father did all things well. Occasional periods of improvement rejoiced her many friends who mourn her departure, but all feel that she is far happier now. Then ups and downs in her life here were frequent, but she has passed that stage, and no cause for anguish of body presents itself now. Her changed appearance gives to her the assurance that no ill of earth can reach her, and the abode of her soul has been transferred from earth to heaven. Words are not necessary to further portray her life. Those who know her can best remember her by their experiences with her, and those who never became acquainted with her have received enough of her faithful life from the words already used.

The deceased leaves behind her a loving husband, four sorrowing daughters and one afflicted son. Words of comfort are not in our mind strong enough to really soothe your aching hearts, dear friends. Sympathy comes from the great Sympathizer that can best aid you. You have a burden to bear and a sadness to carry. Perhaps the death was looked for, but we are sure you were prepared to see a loved one close the eyes in death. She has gone to her home above and we can only entreat you to look forward to the reunion, where there will be no parting. Life is short when compared with eternity. Your years of association here have been ended but your prospects of joining her in her other home may result in endless years. All that we can do is to commend you to the care of Him who cared for the living wife and mother during her many years of suffering. Let the eye of faith be enlightened by this affliction, which God has sent to your hearts. Think of the departed as living forever in heavenly abodes. Trust in her Jesus, imitate her life as she modeled it after Christ's life, and always be resigned to the will of the Father who kept her will in complete resignation. Yours in sympathetic spirit, PHILIP PALMER.
